Marguerite Backman To Submit Poetry For Exhibit

Mrs. Marguerite Backman, talented resident of Cedar Point, last year submitted some of her poems to the National Writers for Exhibit. She won an honorable mention, and this year received a letter from the Association requesting that she again enter some of her works for exhibition to be held in Pirates Alley, New Orleans on Oct. 11.

The following is one of the selections Mrs. Backman has chosen from her many verses to enter. It is titled "September's Kiss."

September came and on her lips was a touch of August sun. And as she passed the dancing leaves she gently kissed each one. They little knew her sweet caress would turn their green to brown. And helplessly they soon would lie upon an autumn ground.

The flowers that bloom profusely, beneath a summer sky, The honey bee, the bird's sweet song—the jaunty butterfly—Must pass into oblivion, this seems the Maker's way To let us know we all must face this Life's September Day.

OBSERVE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TODAY

The Adams, who are life residents of Bay St. Louis, attended a Mass held at 7:30 a. m. at Our Lady of the Gulf Church, when they renewed the vows they took fifty years ago in the same church. The edifice where they were married was destroyed by fire, and the present structure built, but on the same site. Father Chauvin performed the wedding ceremony.

The Adams are the parents of six children, Joseph, who makes his home in Little Rock, Ark., Abigail, who resides in Bay St. Louis, Sylvester, of Biloxi, Van of Green Bay, Wis., Marie Gueydan, of North Carolina, and Miss Lydia Adams, of Bay St. Louis. They have eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Because it was not possible for all of their children to be with them, there was no reception, but just the celebration at the church.

Mrs. Adams was before her marriage fifty years ago the former Miss Alice Pearson.

GOLDEN WEDDING 1903-1953 To Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Adam Fifty years ago today, "Alice" Pearson was married to "Phillip" Adams in the little chapel down the lane. We vowed that we'd love each other, "Alice."

Through sunshine and through rain I loved the golden gleam in your hair. Now turned a silver gray, "Alice" You are just as dear as ever today. As you were fifty years ago today. —Marguerite Backman

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre proudly presents its fourth production of the 1935 season, "Brighten The Corner at their Little Theater on Boardman Avenue."

"Brighten The Corner" is a hilarious farce-comedy by John Cecil Holm. This bright and highly amusing comedy was highly successful on Broadway and had a long run on the road. It is a delightful story of an absent-minded bachelor and all his good intentions. He is very interested in going to school and learning things, but he is so busy he never really gets to do the things he wants to do.

He is interested in his nephew and his nephew's wife. Without notice he drops in for a visit on his way south. When he arrives at the apartment, he mistakenly identifies a charming neighbor as his nephew's wife. For sufficient reasons the truth is concealed. In order not to disappoint Uncle all the people involved go along with the gag.

Also, there is a sizeable sum Uncle wants to give his nephew as an incentive for raising a family. Sizeable enough, in fact, for nephew to do almost anything to keep Uncle happy. Things happen so fast and so often, it is difficult to know when one incident starts and another stops. It is a fast-moving comedy, good for a full evening of riotous entertainment.

"Brighten The Corner," under the capable direction of Dr. Harold Keefe, has a fine cast which includes John KoVacs, Eileen Kemp, Mark Solomon, Darling Normand, Juanita Miller, James Mauffray, Sylvia Hincks, Edgar Landers and Imogene Allison.

Curtain is at 8:15 p. m. Tickets may be purchased by the general public at the door for one dollar plus tax.

The odds against success are long ...

It costs big money to locate new supplies of natural gas—and big money to move it to market. But the members of the gas industry "team"—producers, pipeline and distributors—will continue to discover new reserves of this premium fuel ... will continue to build pipe lines and distribution systems to bring it to your home or factory ... as long as it sells at prices that provide a fair return on the enormous investments required.

Here in the Gulf South, natural gas costs you about the same as it did 20 years ago. We think you'll agree it's worth every cent you pay for it—and then some!

UNITED GAS SERVING THE Gulf South story that looked tired. But in my opinion, Basilio looked better than the Kid when the last bell sounded.

Ordinarily the decision of the judges and the referee is the final word for any fight. But the Kid was so good disregarding the decision as rendered, discreetly felt that the fight should have been decided a draw and a rematch ordered.
True, Gavilan, and the title in his favor. But in New York State the Boxing Rules do not require a knockout in order to win the title from a champion.
From my viewing point, Basilio had the slight edge over Gavilan.
Kid Gavilan has been the subject of discussion many times this past week and the general consensus seems to be that the Kid has been highly over-rated.
He has made a good showing in the past, but opinion expressed was that he has been fighting men who were half licked before they put a foot in the ring. Clever publicity built the bolo punch to major proportions, often beyond reason.
The Kid's footwork is quick and good.
He is light and fast on his feet. His bolo punch is his only real asset because it can be delivered from some length or close while infighting. He has developed it so that it can be used when least expected. It has proven a tremendous asset because it is too fast to be analyzed correctly. Outside of his bolo, the Kid has nothing outstanding. His self-confidence has been cleav-erly disarming. Has had a devastating effect on most of his opponents. It too has been a terrific asset. But the question fight fans are asking now is ...
Has the Kid overshot his mark? Has he finally met someone who can not only take his bolo, but return blows with equal deadliness?
Basilio is a solid sander. His infighting is deadly. Even with a four inch advantage in reach, the Kid kept his distance. By so doing he acknowledged the danger and the deadly accuracy of Carmen's blows.
Basilio deserves a rematch. Friday's fight earned him another crack at the title. He's a hard hitting, serious fighter and I'm willing to wager another crack at the Kid will unsettle the title. If it does happen, it will be a REAL sports event.

Judging from the number of purchases some of our neighbors made I'd say the Community Dollar Sale was a big success. One shopper in particular, showed me two beautiful, watery blis-ters she developed "hiking" in and out of every store in town.
It proves one important factor ... that when people get together to promote a common project, they work for the benefit of all. In this case the merchants, by working to gether on this community wide sale accomplished that would have been impossible. It is just another case of ... united we stand.
The merchants are to be complimented for engineering this project.
It's been a long, long time since the dollar bought so much. The only trouble, at least my trouble, was spreading my dollars for the wonderful merchandise available.
Everyone has been highly pleased with their purchases and they feel that they have received real values for their money. Educating the buying public to the fine merchandise available in this immediate area has not been an easy task. But the effort put forth by the merchants has not been wasted.
It has convinced many that purchases can be made at home that are as good as a great saving as one purchased in town. Even greater when you discount the time and transportation costs.
Perhaps the buying public will realize that the area is pretty green right here at home. It's a lot easier to shop here, and sensible too when you realize that the dollar spent in our community is still working for you.

One of the high lights of my school week was the arrival of the home town paper. It was not only welcome news, but home news. The only real means of spacing the gap between home and school. The Hancock County Eagle has offered to send their paper to any student for the school year. (Nine months) for one dollar per subscription.
We have just received an antihumanistic report from "Chickie" Younger at McVassar College, and she was tickled pink with the student subscription.
Chickie was a member of a newspaper club and she thought a newspaper would help so much. She admitted feeling the miles between home and school, but the home town news certainly cut down on the distance and she soon changed her mind about being out of touch.
